

The Western Oregon Radio Club operates a system of linked repeaters in the Portland metropolitan area. The repeater sites are linked by radio to allow users to be heard on any of the repeaters from any of the other repeaters. This provides coverage of the entire metropolitan area with few shadowed areas. The WORC also operates an autopatch which is available to club members. The WORC repeaters are on the 6 meter, 2 meter, 1-1/4 meters, 70 centimeter and 23 centimeter bands. The WORC repeater network participates in the Evergreen Intertie System. <http://www.gsl.net/worc>

The Evergreen Intertie System is a cooperative effort by the owners of 64 repeaters throughout the Pacific West. The repeaters which are part of the Intertie are operated independently, but they may be connected to a radio trunk for communications out of a local area or during network operations. A repeater which is connected to a trunk may communicate with any other repeater connected to that trunk. Users of the Intertie send DTMF commands to system repeaters to connect or disconnect the system.

Voice over IP

WORC members may access the clubs EchoLink and IRLP nodes from any of the club repeaters through their own radio.

This allows easy national or international communications with other echolink or IRLP nodes throughout the world.

D-Star repeaters now on the air. For Callsign and frequency details see the WORC web site
